

An Inconvenient Cop: My Fight to Change Policing in America

by Edwin Raymond

Washington Post Best Nonfiction Book of 2023 and Publishers Weekly Best Book of 2023, Raymond is the highest-ranking whistleblower in the history of NYPD's force. His hope is to shine light on the fundamental issues of training, data, and practices of policing, so that changes can be made and remind everyone the police's responsibility is to the people.

363.2097 Ray | 2023

Atalanta

by Jennifer Saint

A modern re-imagining of a Greek myth with a feminist slant, Jenifer Saint joins the rank of writers like Madeline Miller, author of the bestselling Circe.

F Sai | 2023

Deaf Republic

by Ilya Kaminsky

Hailed as one of the most important works in poetry, Kaminsky takes his readers on a journey of oppression, power, and otherness as he reflects on a world in turmoil, torn apart by war.

811.6 Kam | 2019

Empire of Pain

by Patrick Radden Keefe

Empire of Pain is the rise and fall of a modern day dynasty. The Sackler Family built their fortunes thanks to the creation of Valium and Oxycotin, but at what cost.

338.7 Kee | 2021

Heaven and Earth Grocery Store

by James McBride

This story may take place in a Pittsburgh neighborhood in the 1920's and 1930's, but its themes of humanity are universal. The Heaven & Earth Grocery Store is about neighbors, community, and the power of justice in the face of racial tensions.

F McB | 2023

Homegrown: Timothy McVeigh and the Rise of Right-Wing Extremism

by Jeffrey Toobin

NYTimes bestselling author, Jeffrey Toobin delves deeper into the events leading up to, during, and following the Oklahoma City bombing. This isn't just an account of facts, but trying to understand one man's journey into terrorism.

976.638 Too | 2023

Horse

by Geraldine Brooks

Pulitzer Prize Winner, Brooks goes back to 1850s with this saga of power and what it means to be a winner, all through the lens of horse racing.

F Bro | 2022

My Murder

by Katie Williams

My Murder is a fun twist, not on just one, but three classic genres. Lou, a happily married mother of an adorable toddler, seeks answers to her own murder after she is resurrected through a cloning process. Mystery, SciFi, and Thriller are all rolled up into one.

F Will | 2023

Normal Rules Don't Apply

by Kate Atkinson

For those familiar with Kate Atkinson, this collection of short stories will come as no surprise. Filled with magical realism, dystopian themes, and some dark humor, those who are new to her work will find sharp prose and a masterclass on storytelling.

F Atk | 2023

Something Rich and Strange

by Ron Rash

This short story collection captures the beauty and complexity of the Appalachian region. Reviewers call it bold, stunning, and an emotional journey.

F Ras | 2014/2000

The Dictionary People

by Sarah Ogilvie

How many people does it take to create a dictionary? 3,000 apparently, including an archaeologist, autodidacts, and murderers.

423.099 Ogl | 2023

The Patron Saint of Liars

by Ann Patchett

Patron Saint of Liars, a story of redemption, launched Anne Patchett's career. Since then, she has been awarded the PEN/Faulkner Award and the Orange Prize for Fiction, writing some of today's most popular books with Tom Lake and Dutch House.

F Pat | 1992

The Rise and Fall of the Dinosaurs: A New History of a Lost World

by Stephen L. Brusatte

Who would think a dinosaur book would make the NYTimes Bestsellers, but Brusatte has been called a scientific storyteller and readers agree.

567.9 Bru | 2019

The Suicide Museum

by Ariel Dorfman

Chilean author Dorfman mixes history, politics, and mystery when a Holocaust survivor named Joseph Hortha hires writer 'Ariel' to investigate Salvador Allende's mysterious death in the 1973 coup in Chile. Was it a political coup or suicide?

F Dor | 2023

Vera Wong's Unsolicited Advice for Murderers

by Jesse Q Sutanto

For fans of cozy mysteries, Vera Wong is a personality both funny and insightful. Her advice is focused around comfort food and tea which she readily shares with everyone, even the reader.

M Sut | 2023